

Project Managers/Demolition Engineers

Exciting opportunity exists for a high performing and motivated individual with a proven track record in demolition project management.

Australia's leading industrial demolition and deconstruction company are currently seeking Project Managers for relocation to Australia.

Liberty Industrial provides demolition and deconstruction contracting and consultancy services to the mining, heavy industrial, power generation and oil and gas sectors throughout Australia. Specialising in large scale, technically challenging projects for blue chip clients, Liberty Industrial has built a reputation for excellence in their field.

As the successful candidate you will ideally have:

- 5-10 years' experience managing demolition projects, ideally in the sectors outlined above
- Ability to carry out work to a high safety standard and drive a strong safety culture
- Excellent communication, time management and leadership skills
- Good commercial acumen with experience managing contracts
- Ability to program and track the progress of projects using Microsoft Project
- Team player with the ability to lead and manage a project team
- Strong technical understanding of demolition
- Experience with asbestos removal and/or remediation projects an advantage

As the majority of their projects are outside the major cities of Australia, you will operate on fly-in fly-out rosters of typically four weeks on the project with one week off.

They are offering an attractive above market remuneration package commensurate with your skills and experience and will provide you with assistance with 457 visas and/or sponsorship for migration to Australia.

This is an excellent opportunity to advance your career. If you have the required skills, want to be part of a dynamic and growing organisation and enjoy working in a young enthusiastic team they want to hear from you!
